I present you the website of Games R Us company which sales the video games. The Website consists of 33 pages each of which have a company logo and a logical title text or image to indicate the page's main function. All the images and text on each page are attractive and well organized. The navigation located in the same place on every page.

The Website contain the following content in an organized way:

• Home Page (including a sidebar containing Best sellers games and Categories);

• Product Category Pages such as PS3 Games, PS4 Games, XBOX Games and PC Games. Each Product Page includes a product image, description, pricing(including discount items), trailer of games and advices for choosing another games:

• FAQs Page where you can find a lot of answers for different, but most popular, questions such as:how will I know you received my order, when will my order be shipped, what payment methods do you accept, how do I know if online ordering is secure and other;

• Checkout Page (including Billing details and Shopping cart);

• Contact Page where you can find Contact Us form (if you want to send us a message) and Mailing Addresses with map location.

Also every page has a hypertext to Shopping card (basket page) where you can make you order.

All pages are consistent in layout: navigation, content, logo, footer, etc. are always in the same place on the page. There are one external style sheet which controls the fonts, color, and other presentational elements of the website.

Also this website is used a few JavaScript functions.